Additionally, we provide corporate secretarial services, especially in the Asian "common law" countries.

Collectively, our lawyers, tax consultants and professionals combine the competence and experience necessary to assist comprehensively on all business matters in Asia. SME Business Institute

PRESENTATION

SMEs are widely seen as engines of economic growth of Myanmar. In developing countries, SMEs provide over 70% of formal jobs on average. SMEs are also thought to promote poverty alleviation and long-term economic growth through improved productivity, innovation, and social mobility. However, SMEs face constraints to growth that are particularly binding in developing countries. In an effort to unlock the SME sector's potential, governments and other institutions spend billions of dollars every year on programs aimed at reducing the barriers to growth for SMEs. However, high-quality Sales and Marketing Training on which programs successfully address the constraints to SME growth is limited; we strive to growth youth force level to work force level engaging their competence skills in sales and marketing. There is an urgent need for evaluation of SME promotion programs to help steer investments to the most effective practices. To achieve this, closer collaboration between the worlds of sales and marketing is vital. SME Business Institute's Sales and Marketing Program is a coordinated market research effort that brings together to test innovative solutions to the most binding constraints to SME growth. The program promotes the use of evidence in the design of SME development programs.

We saved a lot of time and energy thanks to the CCI and built a strong network in Myanmar."
